NOTES BY THE WAY.

Cord intends, it is said, to throw open Port Hamilton to foreign trade.

A Glug Factory Co., with a capital of £100,000 divided into 500 shares, is being promoted in Shanghai, with a view to supply the Shanghai, Hongkong and Japan markets.

The Russian gun-boat Mandjou, Capt. Eberhardt, arrived at Shanghai on the 26th Dec. from Port Arthur. The Mandjou and the Oskry, Capt. C. O. Clapier de Collongue, which also arrived at Shanghai from Port Arthur recently, will undergo repairs, and will probably remain in port over a month. Messrs Boyd and Co. have the work in hand.

RAILWAYS IN CHINA.

It is stated (says the N.C. Daily News) that a Belgian syndicate has recently petitioned the Bureau of Mines and Railways Peking for permission to construct a railway from Tungchou, near Peking, to Kalgan, the object being to facilitate the transport of brick tea to Siberia.

THE LATE GENERAL SCHEDDIN.

An American newspaper states that the memoirs of the late General Scheddin, Commander-in-Chief of Chinese Imperial troops during the Taiping Rebellion of 1852-34 (Vanderlin, red button, and metal Kampao), with pictures and maps, are about to be published in America. These memoirs should be interesting reading.

THE SHANGHAI SETTLEMENTS.

The N.C. Daily News says, on the 29th December:—This long-voiced question (of the extension of the Settlements) is settled at last. The French are to have their extension, on the terms we understand, in Sir Claude Mignot's telegraphic dispatch of the 5th of December 1883, No. 410 in the Blue Book China No. 1 (1899); and the opposition that has been made to the extension of the Cosmopolitan Settlement is withdrawn.

THE CENTRAL MARKET.

At the meeting of the Sanitary Board to-day, a report was submitted from Mr. C. Vivian Ladds, in which he intimates that the necessity has long existed for a market for the wholesale and retail dealers in poultry and fresh fish. He suggested that the reclamation in front of the Central Market would be a very suitable place for such a building, and he recommended that the Board advise the Government to retain the site for this purpose.

Should there prove to be more space than would be required for the fitting up of these shops and stalls, he recommended that the remainder of the area could be profitably utilized as vegetable stalls, and so provide accommodation for many of the hawkers who at present infest the streets and lanes of the Central district.

DECORATION FOR MAJOR MC CALLUM.

The Grenache Telegraph of the 23rd November contains the following report in which reference is made to Major Mc Callum, formerly Commandant of the Hongkong Volunteers (Field Battery):—The members of the Position Battery, 1st Royal and Dumfriesshire V.A., assembled last night in the Drill Hall, Kelly Street, under the command of Captain and Hon. Major J. Mc Callum. Among the non-commissioned officers on parade were Sergeant-Major Gooding, Artillery Sergeant Major Dudd, and Quartermaster Sergeant James Liddell. The band were also present under Bandmaster Robert Whitford. On arriving in the hall, Colonel F. G. Gemmill (who was accompanied by Captain and Adjutant Phyllis, R.A.), was received with the general salute, and after inspecting the battery, Colonel Gemmill addressed the parade. He said the object of their meeting that night was to present the long service medal to their commanding officer (Major Mc Callum) and also to Artillery Sergeant-Major Liddell. Although only connected with the battery for two years, Major Mc Callum served with the Hongkong Artillery Volunteers, which he joined as a private in 1878. He rapidly passed through all the non-commissioned ranks, received afterwards his lieutenant's commission, and retired from the Hongkong Artillery with the rank of captain. Incidentally on coming home, Major Mc Callum joined the Greenock Battery of Position, and was appointed its commanding officer, a position which he has filled most efficiently. His service altogether was over twenty-one years. He had great pleasure in pinning the medal on Major Mc Callum's breast, and hoped he would be long spared to wear it. (Applause.)

TO THE PUBLIC.

I want to let the people who suffer from rheumatism and sciatica know that Chamberlain's Pain Relieving Salve is a safe number of other medicines and salves had failed. It is the best liniment I have ever known of.—J. A. DODDS, Alpharetta, Ga. Those who have been cured of rheumatism by this remedy. One application relieves the pain. For this by all means. Watkins & Co., General Agents.

Cattle in the New Territory.

At the meeting of the Sanitary Board to-day a report was submitted from Inspector J. T. Cotton on the cattle in the new territory. The Inspector made a tour of inspection of 204 villages in the new territory in fifteen days. According to the report the grand total of cattle in the district is 3410 and the total of buffaloes, 1862. The grand total of deaths reported amongst the animals during the past six months was, cattle 753; buffaloes 29. The disease was principally rinderpest, and the infection was spread through the district by cattle in course of transit through the new territory from Chinese territory to Hongkong.

THE FRENCH IN SOUTH CHINA.

An official telegram dated Canton, 27th December, received by the Shanghai mandarins, states as follows:—Marshal Su has not yet arrived here, although he notified the high authorities that he would leave Kuangchow in as soon as he had settled the boundary question with the French.

This work was finished just one week ago, but there are no indications of his arrival at Hongkong, although a despatch has been sent there to bring H.E. to Canton. It is, therefore, considered here, that Marshal Su has been detained by force at Kuangchow by the French as a hostage for the fulfilment of the conditions granted by the Imperial Government.—N.C. Daily News.

A DISTINGUISHED CHINESE SOLDIER.

The N.C. Daily News of the 27th December says:—The local mandarins received on the 24th instant a telegram from Ningpo announcing the sudden death, on the afternoon of the day before, from nephely of H. E. Baron Li Kuang-chin, Provincial Judge and Generalissimo of the Chekiang Army of Defence, at headquarters of our Chinese. The unexpected death of Baron Li will be a great loss to the Chinese Government, as he possessed the confidence of his troops, who are active service both in Tongking and Manchuria against the French and Japanese, and was considered one of the best General officers at the disposal of the Imperial Government. The deceased official was a native of Hunan, and will be remembered as Tao-tai of this port for a short time last year when he came as successor to Tsai Tsao-fai, although destined for a much higher post, which he accepted, three months after being installed in the Tao-tai's yamen in the native city here.

MANCHUS VERSUS CHINESE.

The N.C. Daily News of the 29th December says:—The following Peking telegram was received yesterday by a high Chinese official, temporarily staying in this port, the contents of which we have been courteously permitted to translate: It having come to the knowledge of their Excellencies Dowager that deep-seated dissatisfaction exists among high civil and military officials and the masses throughout the country who claim to be of Chinese descent, with regard to her recent policy of transferring all civil and military power to men of Manchu descent, Her Majesty has been constrained to send for H.E. Victor Liu Kun-yi of Nanking, as the most widely known and best respected official of Chinese descent in the Empire, one who also has the largest experience of active military service [H.E. Liu received his first baptismal fire during the Taiping rebellion] to come up to Peking with all haste in order that they may learn from his own lips what the real cause of this dissatisfaction is in true or false. Should it actually exist within the knowledge of Vice-Regal Liu, the chance may be that H.E. will be retained in the North at present as Cadet-Jing Li, the Generalissimo of the Grand Army of the North. This move, it is presumed, will remove the idea of the Chinese throughout the empire that the Empress Dowager specially favours Manchus to the detriment of Chinese, for as she never fails to say, 'Manchus and Chinese—all alike are my subjects' and all equally beloved and trusted by me.

We have a collection of incorporate by exquisitely artistic and illustrations.

No one who wishes to keep in touch with the progress of art, not merely painting, can afford to neglect the publications of Messrs. Virtue and Co. They are reproduced with all that is best and choicest in modern art, and it is easy to trace through 'Fifty Years of Art' the advance English illustrations have made since the Journal was instituted.

The illustrations of Mr. Graham's work are very fine and those of us acquainted with the paintings of this prominent member of the Scottish school can appreciate the faithfulness and success with which some of his best work has been reproduced.

In the Dec. number of The Art Journal,

Mr. H. W. Brymner's article, entitled

'The Genius of Appreciation,' deals with a subject which has never, we think, been brought under our notice before. He says:—We are ready to accept the conventionalities of the artist and are, however, to believe it possible that they may print or write because they have something they must express without thought of the reward that their work may bring; but we are not so ready to admit that a publisher can also conceive for himself a lofty mission, and follow it with single purpose, and be ready to make sacrifice, and to take risks for it. The genius of original appreciation is as valuable and important in its way as the genius of original creation. One can go so far as to say that it is, on the whole, the rarer of the two; and it is certain that it is one of those good things of which one can never have too much, seeing that there are few of life's interests which are quite so simple as the following:—to appreciate.

Gloves may be old and sleeves 'puddle,'

Her frock be shabby—all of that—

But on her head, big, towering, white,

Though skies may fall 'till I have a hat,

My heart will beat for me.

STALKY AND CO. By Rudyard Kipling. No. 386 Macmillan's Colonial Library.

Hongkong: Kelly and Walsh.

Dedicated to Cornell Price, headmaster,

United Service College, Westward Ho!

Bideford, North Devon, 1873-1894. This latest book of Kipling's seeks to record in permanent form the doings of three schoolboys, of whom the most famous is now 'Beeble,' better known as Rudyard Kipling. The boys show a thorough contempt for 'Eric' and 'St. Winifred's,' the creations of Acland and Farmer, and get through their school hood in a robust and, it seems to us, somewhat unnatural manner. We doubt if Kipling has been successful in portraying faithfully the life of an English public school; one unconsciously glorifies the episodes of youth. Still the knowledge of this does not destroy our appreciation of 'Stalky and Co.' which bears ample evidence of the artistic genius of this popular writer. The men who will enjoy the book most of all are the officers and public servants who have contributed to Britain's greatness.—

Each degree of Latitude.

Strong about Creation.

Seeth one (or more) of us.

(Or one master of us.)

Diligent in that he does.

Keen in his vocation.

Love the training of them men.

Kipling gives us some insight, exaggerated it may be, and with such a training it is easy to understand how it is that British boys, whether 'military' or 'politicise,' carry to the uttermost note of the earth the traditions of their schools; comporting themselves bravely in all manner of various enterprises, often obscured enough without hope of reward or recognition to be easily overlooked for others; and always acting like Beeble's empire and prestige by being leading and dominant.

It is the best lesson I have ever known of—J. A. DODDS, Alpharetta, Ga.

THE WAR—CAPE COLONY.

THE TIMES Correspondent Storkstrom,

1st December, says that forty Montmorency's Scouts were cut off yesterday,

owing to their refusal to leave a wounded officer. They defended themselves splendidly against the repeated attacks of 500 Boers until they were rescued by a party under Capt. Goldsworthy. The Boers then retreated with a loss of thirty killed.

THE WAR.

The Correspondents at Chieveley are unanimous in their opinion that the task com## manding General Buller is stupendous.

The Tugela River is in full flood, and the ## Boer position a perfect fortress.

DISAFFECTION IN CAPE COLONY.

Urgent rumours are current in Capetown of disaffection in the Victoria West and Clanwilliam districts.

RE-INFORCEMENTS.

London, 1st January, 1900.

CAPE COLONY.

An official despatch states that Colonel Pilcher with a force largely composed of Canadians and Australians, after a forced march of 22 miles, surprised and completely defeated the Boer Commando near Belmont on the 1st instant, taking their laagers, with 40 prisoners, besides killing and wounding many. The British lost Lieut. Adie, of the Queensland Mounted Infantry, severely wounded, and three killed.

THE BRITISH SUCCESS AT DORDRECHT.

London, 2nd January, 1900.

THE WAR.

The children who were attacked were all between the ages of 4 and 7, and all of them slept in a series of adjacent ground floor rooms. These rooms are thoroughly well lit and ventilated and have close boarded doors, which are painted. Some children who slept in the ground floor rooms underneath the porch of the house did not contract the disease, and that is due to the fact that they were not exposed to the same amount of smoke as the others.

THE CHILDREN'S DISEASE.

London, 2nd January, 1900.

THE WAR.

The children who required medical dressing were the first to develop symptoms of the disease, and that is in accord with the accepted teaching, but I think that, in view of the very brief interval between their sickness and that of the rest of the children these latter did not contract the disease from the first two, but that all derived infection from the same source.

THE CHILDREN'S DISEASE.

London, 2nd January, 1900.

THE WAR.

I recommend that the Blind Home be thoroughly overhauled before it is again occupied, and that all the ground surfaces be concreted beneath the boarded floors.

I also recommend that the infected rooms at the Head Foundling Hospital be thoroughly disinfected, whitewashed and repainted, and that if there is no concrete beneath the floors, that be done before the children are permitted to return to the Home.—I have, etc.
